Abbeyfield Caerphilly, a retirement home offering sheltered housing is situated on the outskirts of Sited just outside of Caerphilly town centre, Abbeyfield House is a retirement home offering sheltered housing for older people. It has been adapted to accommodate the varying needs of later life. Our Victorian home has nine private en-suite rooms, including shower and toilet, and has been lovingly remodelled to provide supported housing in a family setting.

Find companionship and make new friends in our communal lounge/diner, where you we all like to come together to share delicious home cooked meals, socialise, join in activities or just relax.

For those looking to get out and travel further afield, we have a bus stop outside the house and a rail station at the end of the road which will get you to Cardiff and Newport. The town centre has many bars and restaurants and the impressive castle you can visit as well. We have a post box which is just across the road and the Old Miners Hospital has been converted into a Community Hub where they offer activities and a meeting place for people in the community.

Let us take care of you

Our house manager and the team are on hand to ensure our tenant's safety. It is our number one priority.

We work with professional contractors to ensure Abbeyfield Newport is always well-maintained, safe and compliant with health and safety legislation. We have a community alarm system, monitored 24 hours a day, and our fire alarm is tested regularly and remotely monitored, too.

Simple monthly fees

We make life as worry-free as possible, residents pay one convenient, all-inclusive monthly direct debit that covers rent, service charges, food, utilities and maintenance. We also take care of the council tax, TV licence fee and alarm charge.

Payments are reviewed annually, and – since we're a not-for-profit housing association – we keep our fees fair and affordable. If we make a surplus, it's reinvested into the organisation to improve the services we bring you.

Extra support?

Autonomy and privacy are important for your independence, so we let you take care of your own laundry and keep your room clean and tidy. You'll also look after your personal care and any medications. But if you'd like support in any of these areas, we can help you make arrangements for third party providers to help out.
